What is the Miner Oasis?

The Miner Oasis is a single room that is meant to be a safe and calm place for students to study, meet with friends, or relax while on campus. The Oasis features a massage chair, a Keurig coffee maker, snacks and fresh fruit, coloring books, games and puzzles, informational brochures, and more. There are also couches, chairs, and table available for use. It is managed by Student Well-Being.

Visiting the Miner Oasis:

When you arrive, you may be asked to sign in (sign in sheet will be posted at the door, you sign yourself in). Signing in is solely for use tracking purposes- you will not be contacted by Student Well-Being or signed up for anything.

Once in the room, you are free to access all the amenities provided (listed above), unless otherwise stated by staff or signage. You are welcome to be in the Oasis and using the amenities for any length of time during it's open hours. When you leave, you are expected to have maintained the cleanliness of the space.

There are two Student Well-Being staff members with offices located in the Miner Oasis, but the staff members will respect your privacy and will allow you to use the space freely, unless you are causing some sort of alarm or are harming others in the space.

Occasionally the Miner Oasis may be closed early or at various hours in the day for a meeting, office closure, or other reason, though this type of occurrence is uncommon. There will be a sign posted on the Miner Oasis door if this is the case.
